litical Knowledge could enable them to frame Laws, to applicable and equal to every Emergency, as to re-move the Necessity of Lodging a discretionary Power in the Breast of any Individual: But, since the Imperfecthe Breast of any Individual: But, since the Imperfection of human Wisslom will not admit of such a Refinement, we can only exert our utmost Endeavours, in every Delegation of our natural Power, to guard, by the most prudent Reservations, every such Concession from those ill Consequences, which may possibly follow an arbitrary Exertion of this necessary, yet dangerous Authority. From you, Sir, we may now very reasonably expect (as your Abilities appear quite equal to the Task) that you will kindly communicate to us that Intelligence which we so much require. Our future Happiness and Tranquishy, in a great Measure, depend upon our being able to determine, with the most exact, political Precision, the constitutional Extent of Parliamentary Power—upon our having sufficient Information to discover when those, who have arrogated to themselves this disputed Authority, are arrogated to themselves this disputed Authority, are framing a reasonable Regulation, or meditating an Ast of oppressive Reservaint. The Light which you have already thrown upon a Subject so important and interesting to every Colonist, statters me with a Hope, that, in the Continuance of your Essays, you will teach us so make those Distinctions, without which we can neither reason properly, nor act consistently. As you have already raised our Expectations, it is become a Duty in you to gratify them; and, if any Thing should discourage you from prosecuting the Task you have undertaken, you will very deservedly meet with the Reproaches of the Public, as well as those of arrogated to themselves this disputed Authority, are

September 22. HAGUE,

THE Prince of Orange took leave of the States-General, on Friday last: He left this Place early on Saturday, with a numerous Retinue, and arrived at Loo the fame Day, where he continued Sunday and Yesterday; and this Morning set out for Brunswick, where he will stay Two or Three Days, and then proceed to Potzdam, by the Way of Magdeburg; and, it is said, the Marriage will be celebrated at Berlin on the Fourth of October.

L O N D O N, September 24.

A few Nights ago, a Gentleman at a certain Coffee-House, at the West-End of the Town, offered to lay 100 Guineas to as many Half Guineas, that the present Ministry would last as long as the present Parliament, provided none of them died in the Interim; but no Person would take him up. Whether he or those he thus cowed knew most of the Matter, we leave to the Luicement of our Personer. ment of our Readers.

Yesterday Lord North kissed his Majesty's Hand, on being appointed Chancellor of the Exchequer.
It is now affured, that the celebrated John Wilkes,

Eig; wiil certainly declare himself a Candidate to re enq; win certainty declare nimies a Candidate to represent the City of London; at the ensuing Election, and that he will appear here in Person. Several Gentlemen of this City, it is said; having received Letters from him, at Paris, to that Purpose.

'Tis conjectured, from the Arrival in Town of several great Persons, that there will soon be some Alteration in the Ministry; and some so so far as to say ration in the Ministry; and some go so far as to say, that the Parliament will be dissolved before the Time that the Parliament will be dissolved before the Time appointed for its Meeting.

It is said, that the 24th of November next is absolutely fixed for the Meeting of Parliament.

In the last Amsterdam Gazette, under the London News, after mentioning the Death of the late Chancellor of the Exchequer, they say, "In fact, it is with great Difficulty we shall find so intelligent a Minister as Mr. Townshend, who, by his Arrangements, had not only provided for paying off.2,700,000 l. of the Four per Cent. Annuities, on the 25th of December next, but likewise for the Liquidation of 300,000 l. of the Navy Debt."

According to Letters from Berlin, the King of Prussia is preparing to form a Camp in the Neighbourhood of Potzdam, for which Purpose several Regiments of Horse and Foot are marching thither.

The King of Prussia reviews his whole Army every Year; but has this Year more strictly than ever: On the Return of every Regiment to their Quarters, they had all Orders not to lie delicate, but as if in Camp; to have their Equipages prepared and ready; and by no leave whatever, to be absent in in their Quarters.

Yesterday several Foreigners of Distinction arrived in Town from France, who, it is said, have brought with them some particular Dispatches for our Court.

We are informed, from good Hands, that a French Nobleman, of great Sagacity and Penetration, who spent some Months of the last Winter in our Metropolis, has lately laid before his Most Christian Majesty, and his chief Council, a Scheme for the Destruction of all the capital Manusactures of London; sounded on the Observations he made, during his Residence amongst us, on the Humours of our common People; their Disposition to Idleness; their Appetite for Novelty, and their Want of Police, to enforce Industry and Labour. The Plan is no more than this: To employ about Three or Four Hundred foreign Vagabonds, with Dogs, Fiddles, Bears, Monkies, Parrots, Birds of all Colours, &c. &c. to disperse themselves daily throughout all the Streets of London, occupied principally by our Manusacturers; which, by exciting the Curiosity of the Mobility, and gratifying their Love of Idleness, cannot fail, in a short Time, according to this Nobleman's Conception, of annihilating our Manusactures, and thereby rendering our common People an absolute Burden on the whole Community.

On Sunday last Captain WHITEHALL, Sept. 29. On Sunday last Captain Wrottesley arrived here from Monaco, in Italy, with the melancholy Account, that his Royal Highness Edward Augustus, Duke of York, and Albany, died at that Place on the 17th Instant, about 11 o'Clock in that Place on the 17th Initant, about 11 o'Clock in the Morning, of a malignant Fever, after a fevere Illness of 14 Days, to the great Grief of their Majefies, and all the Royal Family. The Body was opened and embalmed; and was ordered by Commodore Spry to be put on board his Majeity's Ship Montreal, Captain Cosby, to be brought to England.

September 29, 1767. [By an Order from the War-Office, and one from the Admiralty-Office, in the Gazette, his Majesty's Plea-fure is signified, that he does not require that the Of-ficers of the Army, or those of his Fleet or Marine, should wear any other Mourning on the present melan-choly Occasion, than a black Crape round their left Arms, with their Uniforms.]

We hear that the Remains of his late Royal Highness the Duke of York, will be interred with the faine Solemnities as were observed at the Burial of his Brother, Prince Frederick William, who died December 29, Prince Frederick William, who died December 29, 1765.

Off. 4. We hear that his late Royal Highness the Duke of York had satigued himself with dancing at a Ball on the 29th of August, yet immediately after set out for Toulon, 3 or 4 Leagues distant, only wrapping himself up in his Cloak; the next Day his Royal Highness complained of a slight Chillness and Shivering: The Indisposition, however, appeared so very trisling, that he went at Night to the Comedy; but, before it was over, his Royal Highness sound himself much worse, and was obliged to withdraw—By proper Care, he was better in the Morning, and therefore set forward for Monaco, the Prince of which (who was acquainted with his Royal Highness, in his former Tour to Italy) was waiting there, in Expectation of the Honour of a Visit from him, and the Duke was the rather inclined to accelerate his Journey thither, as in that Prince's Palace he might look for Affistance and that Prince's Palace he might look for Affistance and Accommodation superior to what he could hope for Accommodation superior to what he tould hope where he was. The Weather happened to be uncommonly hot, and not a little incommoded his Royal Highness. He nevertheless arrived at Monaco in good contains but yet feverish, and with an Head-Ach. The next Day the Duke was worfe, and took his Bed entirely. All possible Advice and Assistance was given, but to no Purpose; the Fever was unconquerable.

His Royal Highness now saw the Danger of his Situation; and he saw it with Fortitude and Resignation, and with the utmost calmness and composure of Mind, adjusted every Step consequent of the fatal Event, him-felf. His Royal Highness ordered that Captain Wrotfelf. His Royal Highnels ordered that Captain Wrottefley should bring the News to England, and first to wait on Mr. Le Grand, of Spring-Gardens, and with him to go to Leicester-House, and then to Gloucester-House, and having communicated the Event to the Dukes his Brothers, to proceed to their Majesties, submitting it to the King and Queen in what Manner, and by whom it should be imparted to his Royal Parent. After his Royal Highnels had settled this Arrangement, he seemed remarkable easy. He declared himself perfectly resigned to the Divine Will.

His Royal Highnels was sensible to his last Moment; and the very Moment of his Death dictated a Letter to their Majesties, his illustrious Parent, and the Royal Family; desiring the Writer to expedite it, as he had but sew Minutes to spare, and these to employ on still more momentous Concerns.

Before his Royal Highnels died, we are told, that he

We are told the following is an authentic Paragraph, extracted from a Letter written by Col. St. John (dated at Monaco the 17th ult.) to his Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester.—" The inclosed Letter is of your Royal Brother's inditing; and which he affectingly desired me to go on with as fast as ever I was able, lest his Senses should fail him before I got to the Od. 6. They write from Silesia, that the King of Prussia appears much satisfied with the new Fortress building at Silberberg, upon a very high Mountain, which is nothing but a Chain of Rocks. Extract of a Letter from Jamaica, dated October 24, 1767.

"By a Letter from Hispaniola, to a Gentleman in this Town, we are informed that the French Inhabitants, with their Slaves, in Numberabout 2000 Soxis, having pollessed themselves of a Part of the Island ediled Ence a Petre, where they were making Settlements, the old Spanish Inhabitants came suddenly upon them in the Dead of the Night, about Six Weeks 250, and most cruelly cut their Throats, and slew almost errey Soul. On the same Night they proceeded to a Phote, called Jacamel, where they slew 608 more; but an Alarm spreading over the Island, the French beat to Arms, and a general Engagement ensued, whereia the Arms, and a general Engagement enfued, wherein the Spaniards were routed, and about 550 of the Murderen taken Prisoners, besides a great Slaughter. When this Letter came away every Thing was in the greatest Confusion, the old Spanish Lababitants being determined to murder every Frenchman in their Power.
